

Tisch Center for the Arts

Where a kaleidoscope of musical diversity is presented in what New York magazine calls “...the best concert space in New York.”

Kaufmann Concert Hall

Where classical masterpieces and jazz can be savored along with cutting-edge explorations into new sounds and forms.

The World's Most Renowned Musicians

Where the world's most renowned musicians play with intelligence and fire, stirring the mind and touching the soul, performing the finest repertoire from all genres. Where the Tokyo String Quartet plays the music of Bohemia and the Juilliard and Orion string quartets survey works from Haydn to Kurtág. Where legendary pianists—Alfred Brendel, Yefim Bronfman, Zoltán Kocsis and András Schiff—present the repertoire (Beethoven, Schubert and Bartók) they have made their own. Where the world's great string players, from violinists Jaime Laredo and Kyung-Wha Chung to cellist Lynn Harrell, shine in solo recitals and perform brilliantly together in chamber music.

Jewish Music and Culture

Where the worlds of Jewish music and culture bring you Israeli giants like Chava Alberstein, Giora Feidman and David Broza pouring out their hearts on stage. Where families come together and explore the instruments of the orchestra and the strikingly original music of the rarely heard Jewish composers such as Erwin Schulhoff.

One of the Finest Concert Halls in the City

Where your seat is in one of the finest concert halls in the city, conveniently located on the Upper East Side. A concert hall where rich mahogany-paneled walls adorned with the names of artists, prophets and philosophers surround you, a hall where, according to The New York Times, “It is a pleasure to hear a good ensemble...where acoustics are ideally suited to intimate voices.”
