Turning over a new leaf

David Goerlitz, a former model for Winston cigarette ads, describes to members of the Boys and Girls Club how cigarette smoke harmed his body. Goerlitz, who says he hasn't been able to taste food for the last few years because he smoked more than three packs of cigarettes a day, is now speaking to America's youth about the harmful side effects of smoking. An anti-smoking banner, billed as the world's largest, hangs behind the students.
